

COLORADO

Department of Regulatory Agencies

Division of Real Estate

Don't be Bilked by the Timeshare Scammers - Protect your real estate investment

Colorado consumers and real estate brokers alike should be on the lookout for timeshare scams where owners of timeshares are cold-called, mailed or emailed solicitations from an unlicensed business entity purporting to be a full service property management company, real estate brokerage or title and escrow company that lists and sells timeshares.

The representatives of these phony companies falsely identify themselves to consumers using the names and license numbers of actual Colorado real estate brokers, unbeknownst to those brokers. The company claims to be a Colorado company but cites a false address in the Denver area. When consumers respond to the solicitation, they are directed to forward various up-front transaction fees (sometimes in excess of $5000.00) to an out-of-state or out-of-country escrow company.

If you own a timeshare and a company solicits you to sell, remember these five tips to stay protected:

1. Be skeptical of companies that offer “too good to be true” statements to lure you in.
2. Always check out the timeshare reseller first. Contact the State regulatory agency (Division of Real Estate), State Attorney General’s Office, and Better Business Bureau, in the State where the reseller is located.
3. Verify that the real estate broker and title company are licensed.
4. Do not send any money up-front to the reseller, even if it is for transfer fees, taxes, title work, appraisal and commission fees, or if they require wire transfers. Remember, with legitimate timeshare sales, those fees come out of the closing costs.
5. Be suspicious of any requests that payment is only accepted in cash, by wire transfer, or by money order or a certified bank or cashier’s check. These payment forms provide little if any recourse for you in the event you have paid a scammer. If you pay by credit card, you may be able to challenge the charge (if fraudulent) through your credit card company. Talk with your credit card company about their policies in this regard.

The Division of Real Estate recommends timeshare owners contacted by a timeshare resale company should first contact the Division of Real Estate to verify the authenticity of the company and its business license. If you believe that you may have been victimized by a timeshare scam, you should contact your local law enforcement, the Attorney General’s office, and/or the Federal Bureau of Investigation. For more information on timeshare resales, please contact the Colorado Division of Real Estate.